

WILDLIFE HABITAT

A habitat is a place where an organism makes its home and has the food, water, shelter and living space it needs to survive.

Directions: In a forest or other outside place, inspect the trees and surrounding areas for evidence of how an animal might meet each need. Sketch a map of the area, showing where you find each necessary element:

- FOOD
- WATER
- SHELTER
- LIVING SPACE

